

The Future of Cancer Care: From Discovery to Delivery

New York City, November 16, 2018, 8:00-10:00am

Hard Rock Cafe, Times Square, New York City

The American Cancer Society Cancer Action Network (ACS CAN) is hosting an annual policy forum, The Future of Cancer Care: From Discovery to Delivery, in New York City, November 2018. The event brings together leaders and decision makers in cancer research and innovation, health care delivery, payers, employers and government to discuss emerging oncology and health care policy issues that affect the health of Americans.

The Future of Cancer Care: From Discovery to Delivery

Cancer remains a critical public health problem and how cures are discovered and delivered will continually evolve. Personalized medicine is revolutionizing cancer care; research is the birthplace of this innovation. Getting the right cancer screening, diagnostic, and therapy to the right patient at the right time requires collaborative solutions from employers, payers, innovators, providers and policymakers. Join ACS CAN for this exciting discussion to showcase how we can work together to secure new investments in research, protect and improve access to cancer care, and ensure affordability for cancer patients and their families.

Discussion Points

Discovery. Advancements in medical research have unleashed new and improved therapies that are revolutionizing cancer care. Our researchers at local institutions play a key role in these advancements. What does the future hold for federal investment in medical research? How is the discovery pipeline meeting the needs of cancer patients?

Access. Ensuring access to appropriate, quality and patient-centered cancer care is critical to achieving optimal patient outcomes. Changing payment models, networks, insurance markets, and increased demand for personalized oncology services pose challenges to patient access. What's the next move for policymakers and how will it impact access to care?

Affordability. Rising costs are leading to shifts in how health care is delivered and paid for. What are the drivers of these costs? How can policymakers help people maintain adequate and affordable access to care?
